

LET THE GAMES BEGIN!

Artists as Athletes

A dream come true...

but only for a few. Athletes train and prepare for years to have a shot at the Olympics. Many hope, but few succeed. Those who get a chance to go have to work even harder to win. Some Olympic athletes never even get there. Remember the boycott? Remember Munich?

Like many hopefuls, you, too, have been preparing for an endurance event for years, without even realizing that Olympic status for artists as athletes was possible. Setting new endurance records, the long hours of toiling over the delicacies of silks, and the stickiness of wool, the color of the dye, the warping of the loom, and stitching it all together are about to pay off.

CNCH is hosting their first ever Olympic Games where every participant is a natural artist who dares to defy convention by insisting on making things themselves. It is a rare feat of talent and skill to create textiles when only the idea, some time-honored tools, and the tradition of the craft itself exists.

Hope to see you there...

You deserve it!

Cozy up in big comfy chairs when you arrive and drink in the view after your long drive. Meet friends, old and new, to Sit around the fire as if it were yesteryear. Let the morning and afternoon sessions slip by in a circle of quiet chatter and laughter.