

Study Group Cover Letter

You've expressed interest in starting a CNCH-based inter-guild study group. Congratulations! You're in for some fun.

The study groups run, for the most part, completely independently. This means you're free to decide among yourselves what to study, how to keep in touch, and which deadlines you want to hold yourselves to. The attached Guidelines are a road map to the basic structure of your group. The CNCH coordinator is always on hand to answer questions and keep you current about new guilds joining CNCH. She's also your go-to gal if you decide to create a display for one of the conferences, or want to write an article about your experience for CNCH-Net.

The main thing is to have fun, make new friends, and learn something!

—Joan Near
Current CNCH Study Group Coordinator

nearfiberarts@gmail.com

m